As A Professional Employer Organization, Tri-State Employer Services Helps You Run Your Business Better.

Does this sound like your company?

You've worked hard to hire the best employees for your company, but retaining them has proven to be harder than you ever imagined.

New state and federal regulations are being issued monthly requiring constant updating of your policies and procedures.

Sales are finally picking up and you need to hire people for key positions.

Your company's current benefits plan prevents you from competing for the best employees.

You are spending too much time on administrative issues rather than on revenue generating programs.

“ In today's competitive business world, a good benefits program is critical to successfully hiring and retaining the best employees. ”

In its 7th annual Employee Benefits Trends Study, MetLife found that employees are paying more attention than ever before to their benefits plans. The study revealed five key points:

- ▼ 46% of workers said they are taking a greater interest in understanding the benefits they get through their employer.
- ▼ More than half say they appreciate their benefits more than ever.
- ▼ 41% said their workplace benefits are the foundation of their financial security.
- ▼ 39% of employers believe that workplace morale is strongly linked to the quality of employee benefits.
- ▼ Many workers worry about having enough money to retire. 45% claim they are now living paycheck to paycheck.
